Crown Commercial Service

We're the UK's biggest public procurement organisation. We help our customers find the right commercial solutions for over £12 billion of spend each year.

We know that for local councils tight control over budgets and resources is a key priority. We want to help you save time and money when buying everyday business goods and services, so that you can focus on the things that really matter to you in your area.

You can use our commercial solutions free of charge, and we're committed to helping you achieve maximum value by leveraging our commercial expertise and national buying power. The technology areas we work in cover: cloud & digital solutions, network services, software and technology products & services.

We have a dedicated team who work closely with the Local Government Association and other buying organisations to help you achieve your procurement goals. Led by Nick Caton, Wider Public Sector Commercial Director, the team includes Sarah Jewell, Senior Strategic Lead for Local Government and Education and Customer Delivery Managers, Keith Clements and Phil Hodgson.

We want to help you get best value through our commercial deals and join the growing number of CCS customers saving millions of pounds for their organisations.
